Government Goes Through Its First Test Successfully on Monday Night

PROSPERITY IS SEEN

First Question to Be Taken Up Will Be Appointment of U. S. Minister

BUEÑOS AIRES, Sept. 10.—(UP)—A growing confidence in the new Argentine government's ability to maintain and foster national prosperity was apparent on all sides today.

The quick and decisive action with which Gen. José E. Uruburu met the situation arising from Monday night's street fighting seems to have allayed many fears. It was felt everywhere that the government had come through its first test of strength successfully.

With a score of influential followers of former President Hipólito Irigoyen under arrest and government troops maintaining tranquillity, the capital regarded the possibility of a strong counter revolution movement as extremely remote, and today's newspapers predicted an early return to normalcy.

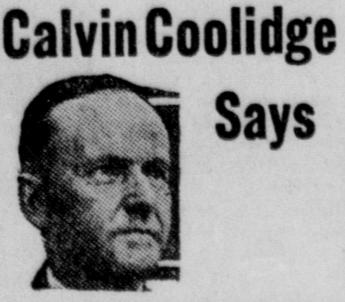

Forging ahead with new policies, the government revealed that the first question it will take up will be that of appointing an ambassador to the United States, thus filling a vacancy of several years standing.

"The appointment of an ambassador to Washington," Dr. Bloy, sub-secretary of the ministry of foreign relations, told the United Press. "Certainly is the first problem that the government will seek to regulate. That depends, of course, on whether the United States will recognize the provisional government, for which we are hoping."

The government has pledged its word to bring a constitutional regime back to Argentina as soon as possible. Meanwhile, however, mercantile law must continue to guarantee the peace of the city.

GRAVE ROBBER IS SOUGHT IN NORTH

LEAGUE OPENS MEETING WITH NEW PRESIDENT

Calvin Coolidge
Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—A district cleavage exists between the United States and the League of Nations on national defense.

Under the league plan each member has responsibilities for the defense of other members.

By that arrangement it would seem that as each country is entitled to help from all the others everyone would feel that there was no need for large armaments.

Curiously, it is not working that way.

Each nation instead of relying on the help of others magnifies its obligations to help others and claims it needs large armaments. Instead of increased security each anticipates increased armament.

When the United States was expected to join the league our government was proposing a standing army of about five hundred thousand. This theory arms for security.

The theory of the United States is for each nation to defend itself, cultivate friendly relations with others and reduce armaments so that they are not considered a menace anywhere. This theory demands for security.

This difference in theory has made the United States a leader in limitation of armaments while it has prevented the league from meeting the obligation under the Versailles treaty to disarm. The league founded in terms of peace constantly thinks in terms of war.

BOOST IN GAS PRICES ASKED BY MACMILLAN

Letter Sent to Secretary Wilbur Asking U. S. to Come to Rescue

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Federal aid in correcting existing conditions in the petroleum industry was sought today by Herbert R. MacMillan, president of the California Oil and Gas association, in a letter to Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, arrived from Friedrichshafen at 9:45 a. m. today and circled over the city.

The airship carried 20 passengers and planned to return to Friedrichshafen after a visit here.

The Zeppelin landed at noon.

Nicaragua Faces Crisis, Reports In Mexico Indicate

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Private information from Nicaragua was that guerrilla forces opposing the Nicaraguan guards and United States Marines recently had been greatly increased.

The information said that the Nicaraguan government was facing a crisis that might soon cause the most serious disturbances since the United States Marines went to Nicaragua. The source of the information was not revealed but recently Leprena has accurately predicted such South American developments as the Argentine revolution.

The discovery of the bones was made by G. L. Briley, of Berkeley.

An attempt to locate the vandal or vandals was being made at once by Contra Costa deputies and local police.

Authorities contemplated placing guards around other east bay cemeteries to prevent recurrence of the vandalism.

MAKES WATER ANALYSIS

MONTEREY, Sept. 10.—(UP)—An analysis of the city water supply was started here today by Dr. R. M. Fortier, county health officer, as the result of complaints from the parents of several school children whose recent illness they attributed to the city's water. The children, Dr. Fortier said, were not seriously ill.

Chemicals recently placed in the water reservoirs to kill plant and animal life were insufficient, he thought to effect illness in humans.

Instructions were issued by committees to delegates to ask that a wet plank be included in the party platform at the state convention.

Republican county committeemen confined their work to an unqualified endorsement of Mayor James Ralph Jr., winner of the party nomination for governor.

The "wet" attitude of the Bourbons indicated that the candidacy of Milton K. Young, Democratic nominee for governor, would not be pushed locally, as Young is an avowed dry. On the other hand, Martin I. Welsh, of Sacramento, Democratic choice for Lieutenant governor, is wet.

AUGSBURG, Bavaria, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard and his assistant planned to step into their aluminum balloon today to attempt to ascend higher into the air than any man ever went before.

The Brussels professor, whose plans for scientific study of the rarified upper atmosphere have attracted the attention of scientists throughout the continent, said his flight depended entirely on weather conditions. All preparations for the experiment have been completed.

COMPLEXION OF NEW SENATE TO SHOW CHANGES

Eleven Solons, Some of Them Veterans, Will Not Be Back Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Eleven members of the present senate, some of them veterans and other colorful figures who participated in dramatic incidents have been dropped from the rolls in the primaries thus far, either by will of the voters or of their own volition, survey revealed today.

The defeat in primaries yesterday of Cole E. Blease, picturesque senator from South Carolina, and Joseph Ransdell, veteran Louisiana legislator, brings to five the total of incumbents who have been relegated to private life by the voters of their states.

The others are Furnifold M. Simmons, of North Carolina, dean of the senate, and for years a Democratic leader in tariff, tax and financial legislation; Charles S. Deneen, Republican, Illinois, who lost to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, and Joseph R. Grundy, Republican, Pennsylvania, who had a brief career in the senate, but one that was interesting chiefly because he had been a familiar figure for years about the capital as a tariff lobbyist.

Those who withdrew voluntarily are all Republicans: Senators Frederick H. Gillett, Massachusetts, who for years was speaker of the house; Lawrence C. Phillips, Colorado, one of the wealthiest of the small group of rich men in the senate; Arthur R. Gould, Maine, remembered for the revelation that he had asked a grape juice concern for instructions as to manufacture of wine in the home.

Patrick J. Sullivan, Wyoming, who filed out the unexpired term of the late Senator Warren; Guy D. Goff, West Virginia, who was a veteran in government service and David Blair, Jr., who was appointed to serve out the term of Walter E. Edge, now ambassador to France.

The defeat of Ransdell and the withdrawal of Gillett removed the "goated bloc" from the senate. Both of these men could be picked out by the short whiskers they had worn for years.

The absence of Blease will be notable particularly to the galleries which enjoyed his frequent oratorial tirades. Blease was rather original in his position on legislation. He was one senator whose stand was usually unpredictable.

His own party colleagues never knew when he might desert them and join the Republicans. He did this frequently.

Blease admitted openly he took a drink occasionally, though he voted dry.

Veterans about the senate remember him most vividly for his participation in the famous Boulder dam filibuster of a few years ago when he kept vagrant occupants of the gallery at all night session roaring with laughter at his tactics.

Please share with Senator Heflin, Alabama, the distinction of wearing bizarre vests, and if Heflin is defeated in Alabama, the galleries will miss the mid-victorian color that these two brought to a gathering that now is conservative as far as dress is concerned.

MacMillan declared that independent refiners were unable to make a profit at prevailing fuel prices. Gasoline is selling at 19¢ a gallon in Los Angeles for all major brands.

The official indicated in his letter that he favored an increase in fuel prices by declaring reduced crude oil prices "would not be just to the great number of producers whose production is set-tight."

WET AND DRY FIGHT FOR DEMOCRATS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept. 10.—(UP)—Predicting a wet-dry fight at the coming state convention of the Democratic party September 18, the Democratic central committee of Sacramento county today was on record favoring repeal of the 18th amendment.

Instructions were issued by committees to delegates to ask that a wet plank be included in the party platform at the state convention.

Republican county committeemen confined their work to an unqualified endorsement of Mayor James Ralph Jr., winner of the party nomination for governor.

The "wet" attitude of the Bourbons indicated that the candidacy of Milton K. Young, Democratic nominee for governor, would not be pushed locally, as Young is an avowed dry. On the other hand, Martin I. Welsh, of Sacramento, Democratic choice for Lieutenant governor, is wet.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT RETURNED

The death of Gale Fisher, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fisher, of Serra, who died under the wheels of a truck on the state highway near his home yesterday morning, was accidental and unavoidable, according to the findings of a coroner's jury, in an inquest over the body this morning at the Winbiger funeral home.

Evidence in the case showed that the little boy ran out in front of the truck and was struck before the driver of the truck, F. N. Powers of Santa Ana, could apply the brakes. The child was instantly killed.

The body probably will be sent back to the family's former home in Minnesota, it was said today. The father stated today that he was of the opinion that the family would leave here within a few days for Minnesota and plans were being discussed to hold the funeral services there.

PARALYSIS DEATH REPORTED TODAY

The second death in Orange county due to infantile paralysis during the present outbreak occurred last night at the Orange County hospital, with Helen Enos, 18 year old student, of 152 Princeton avenue, Fullerton, as the victim. Miss Enos was stricken Sunday. She was the 38th patient in the county since the disease started last April. The other victim was Virginia Dodd, of North Flower street, Santa Ana, who died June 27.

Funeral arrangements for Miss Enos have not been made, it was stated at the funeral home of McAlay and Sutters, Fullerton, where the body is resting. The girl is survived by her widowed mother, Mrs. Margaret Enos. There are no other members of the family, it is reported.

There is one other case in quarantine at the county hospital and one patient under observation.

EMPLOYMENT FOR STUDENTS SOUGHT

In announcing resumption of activities by the employment office of the Santa Ana Junior college today, George B. Holmes, director, pointed out that the institution each year has a number of students who must secure part time employment if they are to continue their education.

"In order that the really deserving students may be given every assistance in remaining in school the office is operated in such a way as to be able to assist the employer in finding the type of boy or girl he needs," Holmes said.

Local merchants and others having jobs of a part time character which they wish to fill were asked to communicate with Holmes at the college.

According to a story told by Rice at the hospital, he was travelling on west Fifth street, west of the Santa Ana river bridge, when he became blinded by smoke that poured over the road. As he lost control of the car momentarily, it ran against the bank, where the youth was sitting and the front of the car crushed the boy's legs.

The Starnes boy was sitting at the side of the road watching the smoke at the time, it was reported.

The boy was taken to the county hospital by Rice, where it was reported that his injury was serious.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

There are unfathomable mysteries about death. But enough light comes through the veil which separates this room of God's house from the next to bring you assurance that in a new and satisfying environment your dear ones are living into larger service and deeper joys. Their lives are still entwined with yours. They have not ceased to strive to give all that you are willing to receive of inspiration and hope and help to make your life brave and good and strong.

They sometimes seem to be far away, but they are always near.

FIRST PLAY TO BE GOLDSMITH PERIOD DRAMA

TO PROVIDE BALLET

Lillian Newman, below, of the Lillian Newman School of Dancing, will provide a ballet of 25 dancers who will present artistic interpretive numbers in Birch park tomorrow night, appearing with the Santa Ana Municipal band. The dancers will interpret "The Jewels of the Madonna" and "Orgies of the Spirits," an Oriental dance.

Definite decision to open the Santa Ana Community Players' winter play program with Oliver Goldsmith's delightful comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," was reached last night at a meeting of the play-reading committee of the Players, with the president, William H. Spurgeon, several members of the board of directors, and the play director, Gladys Simpson Shafer, held in the Shafter Music house on North Main street.

The choice of the famous period comedy drama was made after much deliberation on the part of the play-reading committee, which this year consists of Mrs. M. Burr Wellington, chairman, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Marian Helm Williams (a former director of the Community plays) and Thomas H. Glenn.

It is the intention of Mrs. Shafer to begin casting at once for the play, and the first tryout will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in The Barn on McClay street, just south of Fourth street. Since the play demands 15 characters, four women and 11 men, it will offer opportunity for any newcomers to the Community Players who may be interested in appearing on the stage. Mrs. Shafer today announced that those interested in trying out for a part might see her at the studio address, 303 North Main street, if they found it impossible to be at the Barn tonight.

The official board of the Players will meet Friday night to discuss the ticket selling campaign which will open in the immediate future under the direction of Robert L. Brown, business manager. At the first board meeting held late last week in the Sam Hurwitz home, 1620 North Broadway, Warren Fletcher was chosen

Mrs. Granger, who has been the owner of the Billie-Jean shop on East Chapman avenue, sold her stock of women's garments and the fixtures of her shop to R. W. Newton of Hollywood.

Other novelty numbers will be included, while as a special feature, tomorrow evening's concert will feature the premiere local presentation of Tschalkowsky's famous "Overture 1812," one of the most noted of symphonic masterpieces.

COLORFUL BAND CONCERT WILL BE PRESENTED

By RUTH ANDREWS

With everything in readiness for the presentation of the concluding concert program of Santa Ana Municipal band's summer series, which will be offered in Birch park tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock under the direction of D. C. Clarendon, local music lovers today were looking forward to what is expected will be one of the most colorful events of the season.

A veritable feast of music and dancing has been arranged by the band in honor of "Request Night," for the enjoyment of the crowds which have packed Birch park each week in attendance at the many appealing programs which have been offered throughout the summer months. It is anticipated that during the series approximately 50,000 music lovers from all over Southern California have been in attendance at the series.

A great deal of interest has been aroused by the announcement concerning the appearance of the special ballet of 25 dancers which have been furnished through the courtesy of the Lillian Newman School of Dancing, a branch of which has recently been established locally, and which is affiliated with the Santa Ana Conservatory of Music. This ballet will be seen in three contrasting dances, appropriately costumed, offering a rare treat for the pleasure of the throng whose presence is anticipated.

Musical numbers to be featured will be varied, with a generous selection of immortal favorites such as the famous "William Tell" overture of Rossini, a fantasia from Bizet's colorful "Carmen," the equally loved "Desert Song" of Sigmund Romberg, and the universally favored instrumental sextette from "Lucia."

Other novelty numbers will be included, while as a special feature, tomorrow evening's concert will feature the premiere local presentation of Tschalkowsky's famous "Overture 1812," one of the most noted of symphonic masterpieces.

This celebrated work, originally written for four bands and artillery, is a memory of the disastrous Napoleonic invasion in Russia. The work is a musical battle between the Russian national hymn and the French Marseillaise, in which the Russian emerges triumphant with roar of cannon and drum. It is a tremendously effective work, and will be long remembered by every listener.

The "Overture 1812" was featured at Hollywood bowl less than two weeks ago by the Hollywood Bowl orchestra as the closing number of the famous symphonic organization's summer concert series.

STORE OPENING TO TAKE PLACE NEXT THURSDAY

Following a complete remodeling of the Wieseman China store at 114 West Fourth street, the formal opening will be held tomorrow. It was learned today from Carl Wieseman, manager.

For the past three weeks workmen have been rushing the improvements and the store is now virtually completed. The walls were all refinished and repainted and new wall fixtures were added. A 10-foot addition was made to the mezzanine balcony, which enabled the store to enlarge the display and stock of floor and table lamps.

New lighting was installed throughout the store, especially in the windows, where the newest in display knowledge was used. New floor coverings were laid in the store and many other improvements were made.

The Wieseman store was organized in 1908 and has been continuing every since under the same management. The first small store has been enlarged several times until now it embraces a balcony, complete basement, and warehouse across the alley in the rear. The ideal of the firm is to display goods as they look in a home and of the features to be finished soon will be a large dinner table to show the latest in tableware.

Business School Enrollment Heavy

GOODWILL UNIT MAKES REPORT ON ACTIVITIES

That the Goodwill Industries of Santa Ana was carrying out the idea embodied in its slogan, "A chance, not charity," was shown in reports received yesterday by the governing board of the Santa Ana Goodwill business.

J. Winterbourne, manager, stated that the organization is now employing 12 men and women, most of them old or partially incapacitated by reason of physical handicaps, their employment being the direct result of handling salvaged articles turned into the business by the citizens of Santa Ana.

"We have met the trying unemployment problem to the best of our ability," said Manager Winterbourne. "Sales at the stores have been about the same as last year, but our outgo has been directed largely toward giving aid, through employment, to needy families. Of our 12 employees, 11 are married. We have been providing beds at the dormitory for quite a number of transients, and the call for that accommodation will increase with the winter months. So far as a man is physically able, we expect him to pay for his bed by work in our wood yard or otherwise. The charge for a bed, of course, is very low and no charge is made to the transient who is unable to help himself."

Winterbourne stated that the Goodwill truck can be sent to any home in Santa Ana where articles of any sort, such as clothing, shoes, quilts, books, kitchenware, and any other article that a housewife is discarding, may be awaiting the Goodwill salvage collector.

Directors who attended yesterday's meeting were J. A. Cranston, the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, R. C. Smedley, S. S. Vogt, the Rev. O. W. Reinlus, the Rev. P. F. Schrock, M. B. Youel and T. E. Stephenson.

Miss Klotz is a niece of Mrs. R. W. Spensley of this city and has several Brea friends. She will continue teaching in the Long Beach schools for the present year. Mr. Davies is an architect with offices in the beach city.

Louis Rist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rist, driving the family car, met with a rather serious accident on the highway near the Brea-Olinda high school last week. The Rist car and one driven by a resident of San Bernardino collided and several occupants of the other car were cut and bruised.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd LaGraffe and sons, Benton and Floyd, accompanied by Mrs. LaGraffe's mother, Mrs. Calla Winger, spent the week end in Los Angeles visiting with the family of the sister and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cox and daughter, Miss Frances, returned Saturday from a three weeks motor vacation, having visited many parks and lake resorts in the northern part of the state.

After having conducted the Union Oil company's service station at the northwest corner of Birch and Pomona for the past several months, Claude Sparks is this week taking charge of a super-service station at Whittier, having moved his family to that city. HOW TO END CONSTIPATION

If you want to get rid of constipation for good, you must cleanse the liver of its stored bile, and set it to working right. Remember, it's a toxic, lazy liver cleaned with bile that keeps you constipated. This sun plus bile poisons your whole system, causing headaches, bad breath, slow skin, sour stomach, gas, indigestion, dizzy spells or other disagreeable sensations.

All that any ordinary physic does is to force a bowel movement without setting at the liver. What you really need is a thorough internal cleansing with Plantax, which brings out all the accumulated bile and other foul secretions.

Plantax is a most effective liver tonic compounded from the juices or extracts of hamamelis—bark—medicinal roots. Norton's own laboratory. It acts in a gentle, easy way—no irritation or weakening of the organs. Large bottle $1. On sale at all good drug stores—Adv.

Laguna Beach Post-Office Business In Big Gain

INCREASE FOR AUGUST LISTED AT 11 PER CENT

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 10.—Exceeding even the Christmas rush in mail dispatched from the post office here, August this year exceeded even the high record of 1929 and made a comfortable gain despite the fact that post offices everywhere normally fall behind at this period. This is embodied in a report made by Postmaster Brayton S. Norton.

The gain for August, 1930, over August, 1929, was $1840.30, or over 11 per cent. This brings the gross gain for the calendar year thus far to eight per cent over last year.

Every lock box was rented and half a hundred additional ones could have been used to good advantage. The money order business increased 15 per cent and insured parcel post jumped 12 per cent over the previous August.

Both incoming and outgoing mails were larger by 20 per cent than they were a year ago on two separate days, in excess of 12,000 pieces of mail went out within the 10-hour period. This is the figure that eclipsed the pre-Christmas rush of a year ago.

These figures will be especially significant when it is borne in mind that August of last year was a record breaking month. Also when the fact is taken into consideration that it is the universal custom of all offices to run behind, or if a gain is made at all, only a very nominal one." This was the comment oft he postmaster as he discussed the new institution of which he has charge.

W.C.T.U. HEAD GIVES ADDRESS ON MEDICINES

Arrange Program For O. E. S. Group Thursday Evening

ORANGE, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, national director of medical temperances of the W. C. T. U., delivered an address of medical temperance at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held at the Christian church, yesterday.

Mrs. Kendall said in part: "Medical temperance teaches the care of the body. Let us be careful that we know the ingredients of the drugs that we take into our bodies as medicine. The federal food and drug act has been a great help in informing us of the contents of the different patent medicines. If we know how to read the contents printed on the labels of the bottle, the act does not prohibit any advertisement that the druggist may make himself relating to the product. We are led away by these advertisements and do not know the real contents of the medicine unless we read the label."

The plan of work for the medical temperance department written by Mrs. Hess and two leaflets written by Dr. M. Len Hutchins, who was the national director of medical temperance before Mrs. Hess, were distributed.

The address was preceded by a short business meeting. Mrs. Minnie Neville presided. Mrs. F. B. Scharr led in the singing, with Mrs. Ida Putnam at the piano. Mrs. Emily Reed conducted the devotionals leading in prayer and reading the scripture selection. Special music was given by Mrs. F. B. Scharr, who sang, "The Outlaw." Delegates to the county convention, convening at Fullerton today were elected as follows: Mesdames R. C. Burkett, Angeline Courtney, Flora Ralph, Dwinell, Minnie Neville, Pearl Kendall Hess and M. B. Elliott.

Directors of departments for the coming year were appointed as follows: Evangelistic, Mrs. Emily Reed; flower mission, Mrs. J. E. Parks and Mrs. Hattie Bacon; music, Mrs. F. B. Scharr; narcotics, Mrs. O. U. Hull; publicity, Mrs. Angeline Courtney; scientific temperance instruction, Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess; Sabbath observance and Sunday schools, Mrs. Sarah Myers; temperance and missions, Mrs. Flora Ralph; "Union Signal," Mrs. Angeline Courtney.

The directors of medical temperance and social morality will be appointed later. The department devoted to soldiers and sailors was dropped and the two new ones of medical temperance and social morality were added, making 11 departments to be carried by the organization the coming year.

The Other Bullet

By Nancy
Barr Mavity

Aline Everett, wife of construction engineer and sheep rancher is acquitted of the murder of the Everett's ranch manager. Mortisn, the housekeeper who finds Mortison's body and whose daughter has been wronged by him; Marjorie, Mrs. Everett's sister, who left her ranch the day after the murder. Aline Mortison, who admits to Peter Piper, a newspaper reporter, that she has been in love with Mortison, and Julio, a sheepherder which is in love with Mrs. Cook's daughter.

Two bullets were found in Mortison's body. Aline declares that she shot at Mortison, but that her first bullet went wild. Peter finds her first bullet in the garden and it is brought out in the trial that Mortison was dead when Aline shot him.

After the trial Peter and Aline determine to find the real murderer who, Aline declares, has taken her ring. Peter says that Mortison kept a ring on which was engraved a coat of arms, in a Chinese box which Peter has already found broken open. Aline tells Peter that if he were known he had the ring in his possession, it might cost him his life.

Peter finds that the ring has been pawned by Lammie, one of the reporters of the L.A. Times, whose real name is de la Montanya. Peter asks if the ring was given to him by Ryder, a reporter on another paper. Ryder says that he won the ring in a poker game from a lawyer named Fitzgerald.

It is found that Fitzgerald obtained the ring from Chandler, now in San Quentin. Peter interviews Chandler and it is brought out that Chandler stole the ring from the hands of Jerome de la Montanya whom he found dead in a house he went to rob. Peter reads the history of the case, now ten years old, in the clippings kept by his paper. Chandler has disclosed that a picture of Mortison closely resembles the dead man he robbed.

CHAPTER 35

The de la Montanya house was set in the middle of grounds so extensive that only the tiled line of its roof was visible from the street. The district was on the route of the sight seeing busses, whose barkers pointed it out as an "exclusive residential section" and referred in tones of vicarious satisfaction to the "palatial homes" of millionaires which lined the wide curving streets. A curved street was somehow more "exclusive" than a straight one.

But though the de la Montanya place had an acreage which anticipated the rise in property values and was larger than any of the others, it had nothing in common with the terraces, the open sand gardens, the gleaming white correctness of the Spanish architecture of its fellows.

The thin, musical voice that somehow reminded Peter of the tinkle of the doorbell, trailed into silence as she led the way through a wide hall into a lofty "front parlor" with woodwork of white and gold.

Peter's eyes swept the hall briefly in transit. There was the curving staircase where Lynn had stood in his bare feet, his hand on the balustrade. There were the portieres through which he had looked. But the double doors behind them, leading to the library, were closed.

Miss de la Montanya seated herself primly in a brocaded armchair. She had lived with murder in her possession, it might cost him his life. Peter finds that the ring has been pawned by Lammie, one of the reporters of the L.A. Times, whose real name is de la Montanya. Peter asks if the ring was given to him by Ryder, a reporter on another paper. Ryder says that he won the ring in a poker game from a lawyer named Fitzgerald.

The gardens belonged to an era when no spot of ground was left uncovered by plants and shrubbery, but they were scrupulously tended. The thick hedge which rose to a height of six feet bordering the road was clipped to the smoothness of carpet, its sides straight as a wall and its top level as a floor.

Peter blessed the impulse which had led him to leave Bossy outside the grounds, in order to approach the house slowly and on foot. He paused at the last wide curve from which the driveway swept to a triumphant climax under an old fashioned porte-cochere, wondering whimsically why the uncompromising square pile of red brick had an impressiveness which Peter's cynical democracy failed to find in the perfect Spanish or "period" creations of modern American architects.

The gardens were huddled and pompous and Victorian—why, he had even caught sight of a summer house with a cupola! The house was plumed down in the middle with the smug assurance of a fat old queen in an armchair.

The place had character—a personality of its own, oblivious of fashions in art, oblivious of time. Peter remembered vaguely that the dark red painted bricks had been brought around the Horn. There was something in that. Bricks from around the Horn!

If your bricks had come around the Horn in a sailing vessel, you might well ignore the brilliant white stucco, the varicolored tiles of the "period" architects.

Maybe it wasn't beautiful. But it didn't have to imitate a period. It was a period. You didn't have to like it, but you had to respect it.

Peter had once been assigned to expose the pretensions of an alleged Russian grand duchess.

"She's got them all buffaloes; but you'd split in the eye of God!" Jimmy had said, in giving him the job.

Yet Peter's hat was in his hand as he stepped under the shadow of the porte-cochere, and perked the white enameled knob at the side of the front door. It was the kind of doorbell which Peter expected to be broken, but his pull called forth a prompt and distant tinkle, deep within the house.

His hand had hardly dropped when he heard the patter of hurrying foot-steps within, and a moment later the door opened, disclosing a wispish little figure with thin white hair drawn to a knot scarcely large enough to embed a pair of bone hairpins.

Peter looked down upon a pair of dark eyes which had once been beautiful, a face which had once been smoothly olive, but was now the color of wet sand, patterned with innumerable wrinkles left by the ebbing tide of the years.

"Miss Maria de la Montanya? I wonder if you would be so kind as to let me trespass on your time for a few minutes?" This was a transformed Peter—an extremely respectful, well-brought up young man, whose deep bow indicated a proper reverence for his elders.

To his surprise, the arresting dark eyes beamed up at him with an unmistakable twinkle, and the door swung wide with an inviting gesture.

"Come in, do! I suppose you have something to sell, but I'd like to hear about it. I can buy things—it's almost the only thing I can do. Some people turn salesmen away from the door, but they don't know what it is."

The thin, musical voice that somehow reminded Peter of the tinkle of the doorbell, trailed into silence as she led the way through a wide hall into a lofty "front parlor" with woodwork of white and gold.

"Yet you still live here, as if you were waiting for me?"

"What else could I do? It is the only home I have, and the only money I have to live on. I've no place else to go." Maria stated the facts calmly, without a trace of self-pity.

"But you could have broken the will—but easily. Mrs. de la Montanya was evidently of unsound mind when she made it. It wouldn't have stood in any court. Then you'd have fallen heir to the whole property, clear, as next of kin," Peter suggested.

"Judith was good to me. Of course I couldn't do that to her, after she was dead." The wrinkled old face no longer reminded Peter of wet sand. Its stern lines had the austerity of stone. There was utter finality in that "of course."

Peter leaned forward. This strange old lady had all her wits about her—and she had character. She held grimly to her outmoded code. He owed it to her to trust her—and she was worth trusting. Moreover, despite her eager garrulity, Peter suspected that it would not be an easy matter to pull the wool over her eyes.

"You needn't apologize. You're very welcome. I don't know who you are of course, but you have nice manners. I'm old, enough to pay you that compliment." As if the tide had swept in and rearranged them, the pattern of wrinkles on the old face shifted. There had been a time, half century ago, when Maria's smile had been called radiant. A dim reflection of that vanished radiance tinged it now with a flickering light.

"You're the first person in five years who has rung that front door bell, except agents. All I know of people we used to know are gone, and I'm afraid the place is considered queer. I suppose I'm thought to be queer myself, for that matter. Since—since—what happened here—and then with Judith's ideas, poor thing, people just naturally avoided the place."

Peter saw the wrinkled eyelids squeeze tight, with the weak tears of the aged. But she blinked them open again with valiant pride.

"There's the back door, of course. That's the one the servants use. Judith always preferred to have Chinese servants who came in by the day, so I've respected her wishes since she has gone. That's why I opened the front door myself. It's—it's a little bit lonely here, and even if it's only a canvasser, I'm glad to have somebody to talk to, now and then. Judith was good to me. She gave me a home because I hadn't any money of my own, so I couldn't very well do what she wouldn't like."

"So that's how the chauffeur happened to be the only servant in the house!" The words burst from Peter's lips before he could stop them.

"Yes. Jerome always had his own way, of course, and he wanted Lynn to stay in the house," Maria said simply. "The others slept outside. But how I'm rambling on! You'll get tired of me. What was it you wanted to talk about?" The eager wistfulness in the sweet old voice smote Peter's sympathy with its unconscious pathos. She was actually afraid that she could not keep him—that he would become tired of her and go away!

"But I'm truly interested!" Peter reassured her. "It's a little difficult to explain, but I came to talk to you about—souls."

"Not spirits?" The thin shoulders lifted in a shrug of disappointment. Cousin Maria had evidently had her fill of spirits.

"No, not spirits, just souls. Especially Jerome's soul, and maybe David's. By the way, are you really waiting for David to come back?"

"No, he's dead. Jerome had word of his death several years before he himself was killed. But Judith got so she wouldn't believe it. She couldn't believe that she'd lost them both. She was wrapped up in

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

The Cubs busted up one another's straw hats in Pittsburgh the other day... but nobody maimed Hack Wilson's hay chapeau... because Hack had just paid one buck for the gear a week before and served notice he personally meant to guard it and would start slapping people around if they attacked his hat... Mrs. Wilson's boy means to keep that straw kelly until he has amassed 50 homers... Gabby street says night baseball is "a noble experiment, and you know all about these noble experiments"... If the Cubs are not pulled out of there before September 13, the pulling is going to be tough... because after that date the Chicagoans will play the Reds and Braves... There's talk of a trade that will send Frankie Frisch to the Robins, but of course it's only talk.

MCGRAW MARCHES ON

John J. McGraw falls ill while his team is in the thick of a pennant fight. His doctor tells him to stay away from the bench. The heat would be bad for him. The Cubs and Cardinals invade the Polo Grounds for the old "croocial" series but McGraw is ordered to stay away.

Dave Bancroft is handling the boys on the field. Daily he holds a conference with John J., who wants to know all about everything. These are critical days. You might say the climax of the baseball season has been reached, and what a climax! With McGraw barred from the bench he loves!

Without McGraw, however, the team has been waging a bitter fight. The tremendous attack of the machine McGraw has welded together is making itself felt all along the line. It is like the Argonne with Pershing in Paris. But the boys know what to do and each of them has the spirit that is McGraw.

NOT A DIPLOMAT

There are things about McGraw that can be criticized. A number of people don't like him. He is crotchety. On the bench at times his irascibility burns holes in the feelings and the pride of the men who play for him. McGraw never was a diplomat. He handles none of the players with kid gloves. They may sweat for the Giants' cause only to meet with a rebuke for their efforts. He knows how to sting. A driver, relentless, at times unfeeling, but with untiring fairness.

He has the heart of a fighter. He will not quit. He has been out-lucked. A few times he has been out-thought. But his ball players know their leader is a fighter who asks no quarter and will give none. They have caught that spirit. McGraw may be autocratic and egotistical, but he is always a fighter.

FAITH IN HIM

He expects his men to win or lose fighting and they know it from the minute they put on the Giant uniform. His spirit has given his players faith in him. The men who have played for him in other years will testify to this. At times they have longed to crack him on the jaw, but in the end there is something they remember about him that they liked.

He has made great ball players out of mediocre material, and the reason is the confidence he carries wherever he goes. His teams have shown this spirit markedly.

TILDEN DEFEATS IRISH PLAYER VAN RYN WINS

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10.—John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., today entered the quarterfinal round of the men's national tennis championship by eliminating Frederick J. Perry of England, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

"Big Bill" Tilden won his way through the fourth round, still without losing a set thus far, by defeating G. Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis cup star, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York defeated Samuel E. Gilpin, Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

John H. Doeg, Santa Monica, defeated H. G. N. Lee, England, 6-6, 6-1, 6-2.

J. S. Oliff of England, last of the foreign contingent, was eliminated by Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, 6-3, 6-3, 10-8.

LEO DIEGEL DEFEATS CUICI IN GOLF PLAY

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Leo Diegel, defending title holder, won his first round match of the National P. G. A. championship by 8 and 7 over Henry Cuici of Stratford, Conn., on the Fresh Meadow Country club course here today.

Diegel had led 7 up at the end of the first 18 holes. In the afternoon round Diegel won the 19th and 20th, getting birdie three on the latter hole, and after Cuici got a birdie three at the 22nd, they halved holes through the 29th.

Diegel conceded long putts to his opponents, evidently disliking to win by too large a margin.

Ex-Trojan Stars To Coach Freshies

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Appointment of Director of Athletics Bill Hunter of Francis Tappaan, Russ Saunders and Cecil Hoff to the positions of assistant freshman coaches for the coming season was announced today at the University of Southern California. The new Trojans coaches will work under Aubrey Devine, head fresh mentor.

All three of the new fresh assistants were stars on the Trojan varsity last year. Tappaan is now studying in the U. S. C. school of law. Hoff is taking his last year of pre-medical work at U. S. C. before entering the Trojan school of medicine. Saunders is in the insurance business.

RARE PLAY NOT RARE

Safeties, among the rarest of football plays, cropped out four times in Penn State's football games last fall. One occurred in the opening game with Niagara, one against Lebanon Valley, and two in the Syracuse game.

Larry Walbridge, former Santa Ana high school football, basketball and baseball star, looked good at end. He is fast and rangy. Joe Rodriguez, Don trackman from Huntington Beach, proved to be a speedy quarterback. Other new candidates were Melvin Maxwell, guard, and Bruce Harding, guard and end.

Cook started out with several plays yesterday and used several different combinations. Walbridge and Bill Darney were at ends, Harry Lake at one tackle, Gene Olsen and Kermitt McCoy, guards, Captain Al Kluthe, center, Leonard Natland and Melvin Beatty, quarterbacks, Emmett Seacord and Elmore Lord, halfbacks, and Clarence Hapes, fullback.

Curt McCoy proved a good center, Winslow and Andres showed up well at end, and Vernon Schauppner, guard, Melvin Maxwell, tackle, and Paul Gustlin, tackle, showed promise.

Cook is waiting and praying for the enrollment of several more players, including Wayne Vance, Wayne Bartholomew, Lloyd Nuzum and Doyle Gilbert from Santa Ana; Mike Santa Cruz, "Toby" Groenow and several other Orange players; Gilbert Kluthe, Kiyoshi Shikokawa, and other Anaheim men; Bob McLean from Coronado; Irving Watkins from Tustin, not to mention several lettermen, including Wayne Garlock, Hal Dunham and perhaps Tim Wallace.

GUARD AGAINST SPRAINS

Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach, will not let a football player go on the field, either for practice or a game, unless both ankles are well wrapped.

U.S., BRITISH IN SECOND BIG POLO STRUGGLE

By DAVID J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—One hundred and fifty-odd years ago, old George the Fifth said that a half loaf was better than none. Today, a team of British horsemen will ride out on Meadowbrook field to make what ostensibly is to be its expiring gesture in the second match of the international polo series with America and it seems to be more than a coincidence that only a bloodless tie is its aim.

Falling to win this afternoon, the British will wind up without so much as a moldy crust, even as old George himself.

The British, in brief, must win this match, this afternoon or prepare to die in their own stirrups. They were roundly beaten last Saturday by 10 goals to 5 in the first of the three-game series; so failure again this afternoon will mean the end—and fall they will, according to dispassionate bookmakers, who wouldn't bet that tomorrow follows today, without a checkup.

America Heavy Favorite

They have made America the favorite at 5 to 1 for the series and 2 to 1 for today's match, which seems to be the height of conservatism, since England is committed to playing unchanged the same team that saw its score doubled four days ago.

It was a very gallant team and largely a futile one. Gallantry in a forlorn cause is an inspiring thing but all I ever heard anybody getting out of it was a funeral with full military honors. It probably has no particular significance in connection with the British polo team but it may be worth mentioning that the light brigade was on horses, too.

Until late yesterday afternoon, when the official declarations were made, there had been intimations of an upheaval in the invading ranks, with Captain Richard George

The biggest acquisition, in more ways than one, was Clarence Hapes, 218-pound all-Orange league fullback from Garden Grove. Hapes has the best of physical qualifications and Coach Cook hopes to make a fullback or tackle out of him. He handled the ball nicely yesterday afternoon in scrimmage and got off some towering punts that were good for 50 and 60 yards. Hapes can pass almost as far as he can kick, too.

The turnout was quite fruitful in the light of experience but the Don warriors will have to become more numerous before Cook can dare hope for another conference title. More players were expected this afternoon and after the first of next week, the squad is expected to be swelled to between 40 and 50.

Harry Clayton, 195-pound all-Coast league tackle from Santa Ana, checked out a suit yesterday but will not begin work until Friday or Monday.

SANTA ANA, COLTON COLLIDE TONIGHT; STARS CAN CAPTURE CHAMPIONSHIP WITH VICTORY

in three to take the series. Colton must capture three in a row.

Even were they starting from scratch again, it does not seem possible for the Reds to turn such a trick. The Stars simply are too good for that.

So far, Santa Ana has played much the better ball. The Stars have scored 12 to Colton's five runs, hit safely 30 to Colton's 20 times. On defense, Salveson's disciples have outplayed the Railroaders even more decidedly. Santa Ana has made but two errors in four games. Colton has booted 12 chances, an average of three a game.

The scorebook says Santa Ana has better catching, better pitching, better fielding and even better hitting. Score books don't win ball games—but scores do. That is why the dope favors Santa Ana so strongly now.

Salveson in Quandry

Even so, Salveson is in a quandry. He would just as soon have somebody else doing the "second guessing" for him tonight.

The big manager had planned on pitching Ray Price, the demon of the dugouts, if the series ever got to the place it is at this very moment. Semi-officially, Salveson once even went on record to that effect. Today, Herb isn't so sure.

"I don't know what to do," he said. "I'll frankly admit it."

"Price has been one of the most faithful men on the squad. He has ond and Alex Maltzberger at third. As has been the case for every game, the Bowl will be packed to capacity. Every seat in the permanent stands has been sold. Those who failed to make their reservations and fans from surrounding communities will find the "circus seats" in left and right field. The turnout may total 4000.

warmed the bench without a grumble, even though he realized he pitched mighty well whenever he got the chance. He deserves a chance to start a game in this series.

"On the other hand, if we used Price and he is unable to win, we must go back to Colton to play a game which on their own grounds and with their own ball they might very easily win."

"That would square the series. We then might lose the toss for grounds and have to play them up there again."

"I admit I don't know what to do. And I won't know for sure until game-time."

There is some doubt about the rest of the Santa Ana lineup, too.

"Memphy" Hill, colorful and efficient little shortstop, has a broken thumb on his throwing hand and may not play. He hurt it at Colton Monday night, x-rays taken yesterday revealed the extent of the injury.

Hill is quite a competitor and must not be counted out of the order until game-time because he is just as apt to start as not.

If Hill is unable to take his usual post, Salveson probably will use Leavitt Daley at shortstop and go back to the old outfield lineup—Randolph Bell in left, Wayne Nelson in center and "Rosy" Merrill in right.

If Hill plays, Salveson intends to use the same lineup that routed Colton 6-0 Monday: Wilcox back of the pan, Cole at first base, Scott at second, Hunter at third, Hill at short and Nelson, Daley and Merrill in the suburbs.

The way is not so clear for Manager Hubert Finlay of Colton. The big leader of the Reds admits he is not satisfied with the manner in which his henchmen have played, but he has tried almost every conceivable combination without improving conditions materially.

When Finlay started Rudy Montgomery here last week, the Stars knocked the kid off the crag in four heats. Vern Botts then went in and hurled shut out ball the rest of the route. Finlay started Botts Monday, and the Stars simply murdered everything he threw up to them. Montgomery was rushed to the rescue and stopped the rampage at once. Naturally Finlay doesn't know what to do.

The chances are that Botts will be the Colton nominee, however. The tall youngster has done mighty well in this series, all things considered, and stands a better chance of taming the Santa Ana attack than Montgomery.

Bob Stone will be behind the log with his brother, Jack, a dangerous hitsmith, at first base, "Shorty" Stock at second, Ray Shadoff at third and Hank Hannegan at shortstop.

Gilbert, Thome and either Bowens or Noriega will patrol the pastures.

The umpires will be "Shorty" Smith back of the plate, Freddy Smith at first, W. B. Wentz at second and Alex Maltzberger at third. As has been the case for every game, the Bowl will be packed to capacity. Every seat in the permanent stands has been sold. Those who failed to make their reservations and fans from surrounding communities will find the "circus seats" in left and right field. The turnout may total 4000.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by Denny Shute

"Where is your ball in regard to your own position when you make a shot?" is a question many persons have asked me.

I play almost all my shots off my left heel. That means that the ball and the left heel make a line at right angles to the line of the shot. My strokes work best for me that way.

Some players make their shots with the ball slightly more forward than this, even as far as the left toe. Still others play it as far back as to be even with the nose—directly over the ball, so to speak.

Of these, the latter are in the minority. When a ball is hit as far back as the middle of the body, there is danger of toppling or smothering the shot. Sometimes the ball is played back to get a low shot into a strong wind but this is dangerous when made by any other than an expert who knows exactly what he can do.

If a player is in doubt as to the the Huffman games.

Orville Schuchardt will not play football this fall because he does not want to take a chance of re-injuring the ankle he broke last season. He is wise. Schuchardt should make the grade in professional baseball. I understand he has been offered a contract by Oakland.

University of California at Los Angeles will have to do without the valuable services of Jack Remsberg, 180-pound running guard from Santa Ana, for the first month of the football season. Slated for a first string berth on Bill Spaulding's Bruin machine, Remsberg was incapacitated when he fell from a 25-foot platform.

Charley Elphorn, skyscraping Stanford tackle, will leave Santa Ana for the Cardinal campus Friday. The former Saint star is the tallest football player on the Pacific Coast. He is 6 feet, 6 inches. He came back from a summer in the Ventura mountains weighing 216 pounds.

Bruce Tarver, captain of the Santa Ana prep evelen last fall, and Sammy Griswold, junior collegeguard, enter Stanford this fall, too.

Dick Linares, erstwhile professional at the Long Beach municipal course, recently equalled the course record at the Santa Ana Country club. He shot a 69.

Harvey Bear does not intend to go back to Pomona college this fall. Bear is Pomona's ace sprinter, although he would be a much better quarter-miler than a dashman if the Sagehen coaches got wise to it.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the White-Emerson parlor in Whittier for Edward Oldham, 76, who passed away Sunday morning at the home of his nephew, Josiah Campbell. The deceased was a cowboy in his younger days, having spent much of his time on the range when a youth. The last few years have been spent at La Habra and at his ranch in the northern part of the state.

G. L. Gordon returned to La Habra Monday morning after spending 10 days in Kansas City and Plattsburg, Mo., where he attended the wedding of his son, George L. Dr. Ellis has located at 127 West Erna street. His last book was written in La Habra.

OLD PAPER TELLS OF FIRST PRESIDENT

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 10.—(INS)

One of the prized possessions of C. D. Roady of Pueblo is an aged, yellow copy of the "Gazette of the United States," printed May 2, 1789, telling of the inauguration of George Washington. Two other old newspapers are among the valued collection of Roady's.

One, the New York Herald for April 5, 1885, tells of the assassination of President Lincoln, and the other, the Louisville, Ky., "Union Volunteer," bears news of the victory at Gettysburg.

The papers have been the property of his family for year, Roady said.

Washington's inaugural address, with a description of the ceremonies attending its delivery are contained in the "Gazette" under a headline which runs perpendicular to the side of the page, and which reads: "Gen. George Washington's Inauguration. Our First President, 1789."

Modern journalists perhaps may find solace in noting that the word "inauguration" is misspelled.

Vivid accounts of the assassination of Lincoln and the attempt on the life of Secretary Seward are given in the copy of the "Herald." There are 17 headlines over the "Union Volunteer's" story of the battle of Gettysburg, and the same paper tells of the occupation of Vicksburg by General Grant.

KILLS DOG, THEN DIES HEARTBROKEN

DENVER, Sept. 10.—(INS)—For years "Old Man Stokes" as he had become known along the river bottom in Denver, had lived in the fog of loneliness, his faithful mongrel dog, Sport, his sole companion.

One night recently, he decided both he and Sport were too old to take care of themselves and that "shove off."

In his cheap hotel bedroom, the aged man shot Sport to death and turned the rusty old pistol on himself. He pulled the trigger but the old weapon failed to work. By that time the proprietor of the hotel arrived and wrested the pistol from his grasp.

Stokes was taken to the Denver general hospital. There the old man died of a broken heart, crazed with grief for having killed his mongrel pet.

OBITUARY

Margaret Elizabeth Cathcart was born April 26, 1855, near Coulterville, Illinois. She departed this life August 27, 1930, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will
J. Lindsay, Santa Anna, California.

On January 25, 1877 she was joined in the bonds of holy wedlock to Robert Knox Torrens, and a happy Christian home was established and maintained at Tillman, Illinois, and later in Santa
Ana for twenty-five years. Mrs.
Torrens filled the place of a faithful wife and mother not only in her own home, where grew her children, but many other homes sought her helpfulness, especially in times of sickness and misfortune, and her self-sacrificing services were always cheerfully given. In the days of her strength many enjoyed the hospitality of her home.

Mrs. Torrens loved her Lord and Master well, and while yet young surrendered her life to her Savior for safety and keeping, and became identified with the Reformed Presbyterian church. She loved her church, and in the days of her strength was constant in attendance and faithful in all the ordinances. She was a charter member of the Santa Ana branch, organized August 5, 1905.

The strain of an untiring service rendered to home, church and community proved too much, and about six years ago, her strength began to fail, and during this time she suffered intense pain.
Yet she could confidently say,
"The sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." Loving hands and medical skill did all that was humanly possible to bring comfort, until death released her from the prison house of pain.

The funeral service was held at Smith and Tuthill's parlors and was in charge of her pastor, Rev.
Samuel Edgar assisted by the Rev. David Calderwood of Los Angeles, California, Rev. J. S.
Thompson of Hemet, California and the Rev. W. H. McPeak, of the United Presbyterian church of Santa Ana.

The beloved floral display as also the large number of sympathizing friends, gave evidence of the esteem in which she was held in the community.

The precious form was tenderly borne by six nephews and carefully laid away in the beautiful Fairhaven cemetery beside her husband, who preceded her April 4, 1925, to await that glad resurrection morn.

She leaves to mourn her departure two daughters, Mrs. G. N.
Greer of Anaheim and Mrs. Will
J. Lindsay of Santa Ana, three brothers, R. T. and D. A. Cathcart of Santa Ana, and Mathew Cathcart of Tilden, Illinois, two grandchildren, Helen and Ralph

Huge Parade Of Pet Animals Will Be Staged Here

SPONSORED BY MITCHELL AND FOX THEATERS TALBERT HEAD PARTIES HERE

A gigantic street parade of all kinds of pet animals owned by Santa Ana and Orange county children, was announced today by the Santa Ana Register and the Fox West Coast theaters.

The parade, expected to be one of the most unique things that the city ever has seen, will be staged at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and the line of march will be over the principal streets of the city.

The Democratic central committee, however, made a change in its leadership, substituting J. G. Mitchell, of Santa Ana, for B. E. Tarver, who has served as chairman of the Bourbons in Orange county for several terms. Mitchell has been secretary of the committee for several years and his efficient work and loyal services resulted in his selection as leader of the party in the county. B. Z. McKinney, attorney, was chosen to serve as secretary.

Both organizations took action endorsing the party nominees on the state ticket and pledging their support to the election of these nominees.

Vice chairmen were selected by both groups, the Republicans electing these men and the new chairmen appointing them for the Democrats. They were named from supervisory districts as follows: 1st—Republican, Z. B. West; Democratic, Jules Marke; 2nd—Democratic, Dr. C. C. Violet; 3rd—Republican, J. S. Howard; Democratic, R. W. Ramsey; 4th—Republican, John Allen; Democratic, Don Clark; 5th—Republican, Hal Warner; Democratic, William Ayres. Talbert, Republican chairman, is from the second district.

A general vice chairman and a treasurer also were elected by the Democrats. Sam Nau and George A. Edgar being chosen respectively for these offices.

The Republican elected Milburn Harvey as assistant secretary because of the fact that the secretary Earl Abbey, would be engaged in the campaign in his contest for election as county treasurer.

Chairman Talbert, head of the Republican county organization, outlined briefly to the committee some of the measures on which the Southern California committee and state committee are working. He declared that the reapportionment was receiving careful consideration; that the committee was working to get a fair share of state and federal appointments; that the prospects for the appointment of Judge F. C. Drummond to the federal bench were good; and that other problems receiving considerable study included appropriations, roads, and state and federal aid toward water conservation. He declared that the Southern California committee was asking for fair play for these contests.

Boys and girls of the city who have heard about the parade think it will be a great success in every way, Fagan said, and he is sure that it will be something that the city has never before seen.

All county committeemen are welcome to the sessions of the state organization and the Southern California committee, he declared, and have the privilege of taking part in discussion, making motions and other activities except voting on contests.

The endorsement of James Ralph as party nominee for governor, and the other men named on the ticket, came on a motion by Z. B. West, who was county secretary of the Folsom organization.

The Democrats extended an unanimous rising vote of thanks to the retiring chairman, B. E. Tarver, for his active and loyal work in the past. The following telegram from Milton K. Young, Democratic candidate for governor, was read to the committeemen by H. C. Head:

"Please present my greetings to Orange county Democratic central committee in convention assembled."

The opportunity of electing a Democratic governor of California is at hand. The position of the respective candidates upon public questions will be determination of the election. I have had many assurances of carrying Orange county. I am sure that every loyal Democrat will give his best to the campaign. Milton K. Young."

The following resolution endorsing Young was presented by Head and unanimously adopted:

"RESOLVED, by the Democratic central committee of Orange county that in the nomination of the Honorable Milton K. Young as candidate for governor of California, the Democratic party has presented to the electors of our great state a man in every way worthy to be governor of California. For many years he has been recognized as a public spirited, patriotic citizen of the Golden State and his standing as a leading member of the bar in California stamps him as having the ability and the breadth and strength of character which should characterize a governor of the state of California. He is too big a man to be swayed by sectional jealousies or petty partisanship and is worthy of the support of every law-abiding, patriotic citizen of California regardless of party affiliation."

Those in attendance at the county central committee meetings were as follows: Republican—Dr. John D. Ball, P. G. Beisel, William Iverson, S. M. Reinhaus, Z. B. West, Earl E. Abbey, William M. Morris, John H. Pope, T. B. Talbert, E. C. Dutton, J. S. Howard, Howard B. Irwin, Donald C. Jones, Ralph W. Maas, Donald L. Winans, O. F. Stephens, John F. Allen, C. F. Newton, J. P. GAIN CONTROL IN SANTA ANA LOAN CONCERN

Having bought a controlling interest in the Southwest Building and Loan association at 217 North Broadway, the Prudential Guaranty corporation of San Diego, with S. C. Robertson, of Long Beach, as representative, assumed control today.

According to Robertson, the Santa Ana corporation will be practically unchanged, with the exception that G. L. Strobeck, head of the San Diego company, will become president of the Southwest corporation to succeed Alex Brownbridge, and Robertson will become vice president. Brownbridge will remain a director, however, and A. C. Hasenjaeger will remain as resident manager.

The new corporation will have resources in excess of $500,000, it was learned. Both the Southwest and Prudential companies were organized in 1928. Strobeck, president, has lived in San Diego for 12 years and is prominent in financial circles, having owned a series of nine banks prior to his southern residence. Robertson is widely known in Orange county and has been resident manager for the Mortgage Insurance company, of Los Angeles, in Long Beach.

Santa Anans Journey
Through 26 States
On Summer Trip

Completing an interesting automobile trip through the east, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nourse have returned to their old home at 119 Owens Drive, from which they set forth on their journey, on July 1.

Their first destination was Lansing, Mich., where they were welcomed to their old home by friends and relatives. In Petersburg, Mich., they visited two of Mrs. Nourse's sisters, Miss Allie Bennett and Mrs. John O. Zabel, and the latter accompanied them to New London, N. Y., the birthplace of the trio of sisters. Familiar haunts of their childhood days were visited, and the stay there was made doubly interesting by friends of their youth.

Boston, Portland, Me., and over the Roosevelt highway via Naples to the White Mountains, followed in due course, and then the Californians and their guest turned south to Plymouth, Lake Winnipesaukee, Hartford, Conn., and across the Hudson river on the famous Bear Mountain bridge. In Philadelphia, they attended the National Spanish War Veterans' convention. Mr. Nourse as a delegate from Calumet camp, and Mrs. Nourse from the auxiliary.

They found the convention sessions interesting and valuable, and the Quaker City most hospitable to the Spanish War veterans. A side trip to Valley Forge of Revolutionary war history, and General Washington's headquarters added to the interest. The travelers also visited in Harrisburg, Penna., where Mr. Nourse joined the colors in 1898, and from that point, journeyed to the battlefield of Gettysburg.

After leaving Mrs. Zabel in her Michigan home, Mr. and Mrs. Nourse started on their return across the continent, taking the opportunity to discover business conditions in the 26 states visited on the outing.

It was their opinion that business conditions in the east were improving, and that a speedy return to normalcy was pending. They found the miniature golf fever raging, and discovered that many farmers were putting in courses for their own pleasure.

In all, they traveled 10,000 miles, using 712 gallons of gasoline. They returned to California on the same air with which they left, in three of their tires but had a puncture in the fourth while on the Arizona desert, thereby, according to Mr. Nourse, "letting loose in Arizona, 45 pounds of really good air, so our loss was Arizona's gain!" They considered New England the most interesting feature of the trip, with the single exception of their eventual return to Santa Ana and their attractive home.

Return of Newly-weds
Is Celebrated With Dinner Party

Wedding Anniversary
Was Observed With
Evening of Bridge

Telexgraphing the announcement of their marriage in Yuma, Ariz., Sunday, September 7, to relatives and friends yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patterson were in turn due for a surprise, for when they arrived at the home of Beryl Jenifer in Costa Mesa last evening expecting a family dinner at the most, they found a number of friends assembled to share in their happiness. Assisting Mr. Jenifer in his duties as host was Mrs. Virginia Lee Radcliffe, of Los Angeles.

The table was beautifully appointed, and was spread with gleaming white linens. Decorations in the brilliant autumn hues were expressed in dahlias and zinnias, and were used to decorate the rooms as well. Dancing occupied the fleeting hours following the delectable dinner.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with Mr. Jenifer and Mrs. Radcliffe other than the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, were Mr. and Mrs. George Jenifer of Irvine, Mrs. Lillian Fuller of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Manley of this city, Mrs. Deen of Costa Mesa, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Fields and Mrs. May West of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson are planning to make their home on Trabuco road, Irvine ranch. They have a cozy home in readiness and Mr. Patterson will engage in ranching. For some time he and Beryl Jenifer have been in partnership, ranching in Costa Mesa. Mrs. Patterson was formerly Mrs. Olive Currie and as student at the Chicago College of Beauty, intends to continue in her work for about a month. Their wedding came as a complete surprise to their friends here. For the ceremony the bride chose a smart black and white ensemble with harmonizing accessories.

En route to Costa Mesa from the newly married couple stopped at San Diego and Agua Caliente.

Club Members Spend Pleasant Evening In Sala Home

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Sala were hosts to members of the P. and R. Bridge club Saturday evening when they entertained in their home at 1408 North Broadway. Fall flowers in a variety of brilliant hues lent charm to the attractions of the rooms.

In the card games of the evening Mrs. Fred Lentz, of Orange and Virgil Clem of this city scored high. A delectable refreshment course concluded the pleasant hours.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Sala, were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Miller of Orange, special guests of the evening; Mr. and Mrs. George Venners and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lentz, of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Jones and son, Donald, of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Clem, and John State.

Various games were featured, one of the most popular, being the round of miniature golf on the course on North Main street. Miss Mary Wallace proved herself a most adept player, holding the low score.

Returning to the attractive colonial gardens to the rear of the home, guests enjoyed a tempting little supper served at small tables. It was especially pleasant to meet Miss Barbara Lash of Los Angeles, who was a house guest of Miss Schrock.

Those present to share in the hospitality of Mrs. Schrock and her daughter, Miss Mary, were the Misses Natalie Beaudette, Margaret Haynes, Mary Wallace, Gertrude Rond, Frances Tibbits, Eunice Spiller, Katherine McDermott, Marjorie Putnam, Marian Riley, Barbara Lash, Helen Tannenbaum and Beatrice Grana.

With new officers of the Women's Forum assuming their duties for the first time, members of the group met in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday for luncheon. Mrs. Ray Snyder as the new president was in charge of the session, and opened the program with a discussion on Admission day.

Mrs. Major Anderson was in charge of the informal table talks which featured vacation reports, the first of which was by Mrs. Martin Carlson, who gave an interesting description of Yosemite valley. She developed her subject from her history of music, and continued on through the progress of musical instruments. Varying the program was an amusing talk by Mrs. Carl J. Sutton on "My Hobby."

Mrs. John Clarkson, as critic, criticised the talks, and the meeting closed with a discussion of the correct pronunciation of words.

W. C. T. U. Makes Plans
For State Conclave
In This City

Their final meeting before the Orange County W. C. T. U. convention which opened today in Fullerton, was held yesterday afternoon by members of the local Union, in Leck Court on North Broadway. Mr. Rogers made the trip here many years ago by boat from Oregon, when landing was done at Newport harbor, and then on to Tustin City over very dusty roads. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are uncle and aunt of Mrs. Walter Dunlap of 2143 North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Archambault of France Field, Canal Zone, were guests at the J. E. Wilson home, 1912 Spurgeon street, over Sunday.

Mrs. C. A. Samuelson and daughter, Miriam, and Mrs. M. V. Kirk of Tustin, spent yesterday in Ontario and in Claremont visiting friends.

The Misses Mary and Frances Dunstan, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunstan, East Seventeenth street, returned last week from Europe where they have been touring for the past two months.

They stopped in France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Belgium, Holland and England. While in Germany they saw the Passion Play.

Mrs. Amy Evans, like many of her officers, returned for the second year's term. Mrs. Anna Miller was the newly elected recording secretary, and assumed her duties at once.

During the business hour a resolution was passed, expressing appreciation of J. Frank Burke, editor and publisher of the Santa Ana Register, and his firm stand for the cause of temperance, as so fully expressed in the columns of his paper. The resolution carried unanimously.

Announcement was made of the county convention, and delegates were appointed to represent the Santa Ana Union at the two days' session. The local group now numbers 579 members, carrying the privilege of 60 delegates, one to every ten members. All who are able to attend the sessions, will be empowered as delegates until the number is reached. It is especially important that the full representation be present at the election on Thursday.

The state convention will be held in Santa Ana First M. E. church October 7 to 10, for the first time since 1919, and thousands of temperance workers from all sections of the state are expected at the excellent programs now being planned.

The Santa Ana Union will be entitled to 26 delegates, one to every group of 25 members or a fraction thereof. Those named at yesterday's session were Mrs. A. M. McDermott, Mrs. W. B. Tedford, Mrs. Belle Nuckles, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, Mrs. Emma Tenney, Mrs. Mina Tidball, Mrs. Effie Nicholson, Mrs. Mary Wager, Mrs. Anna Scott, Mrs. Fannie Lash, Mrs. Iuelia Stewart, Mrs. Sarah Hutchins, Mrs. Anna Miller, Mrs. Maud Winbigler, Mrs. Edith Moore, Mrs. Edna Leonard, Mrs. Laura Leonard, Mrs. Josephine Blood, Mrs. Margaret McClelland, Mrs. May White, Mrs. Mabel Purlington, Mrs. Ora Harbow, Mrs. Ora Hicks, Ensign Ruth Edwards, Mrs. Rosa Harding, Mrs. Amy Evans, and by virtue of their offices, Mrs. Elizabeth Warren, Mrs. Alma J. Kellogg, Mrs. A. A. Jones, and Miss Emily Cox.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Congregational church board for the use of the church bungalow for regular meetings, and an invitation from the First Presbyterian church to hold the meetings next year at that place was accepted.

The W. C. T. U. corporation held the annual meeting, and elected the following board of trustees, Mrs. Amy Evans, Mrs. Nellie Tedford, Mrs. Mina Tidball, Mrs. Ora Harding, Mrs. Ora Hicks, Mrs. Edna Leonard, Mrs. Effie Nicholson.

The wedding took place at St. Ann's Inn, with the Rev. George A. Warner, D. D., of the First M. E. church, officiating. The bride was Miss Marguerite Loranger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Loranger of Corona, and wore a charming costume of peach-tinted chiffon with soft blue accessories. Her flowers were copper-hued roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Muriel Tanner of Los Angeles, as honor maid, wore blue silk and carried pink sweet peas. William Silva of Los Angeles, a college mate of Mr. Kuffell's, served as best man.

Nearly half a hundred guests assembled at the inn for the ceremony which was followed by a reception and luncheon of unusually lovely appointments. A musical program was presented by a group of Santa Ana artists, Miss Ruth Armstrong, piano, Miss Georgia Belle Walton, violin, and Edward Burns, cello.

Farewell Party Given For Mrs. Stone By Church Guild

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer on North Park boulevard, made a charming setting for a party given yesterday when members of the Senior Guild of the Church of the Messiah, gathered to bid farewell to their president, Mrs. Howard Stone, who will leave Friday for a two months' stay in the east.

A variety of early fall blooms enhanced the attractions of the home and the perfectly appointed tea service. Following a social hour the honoree was presented with several pieces of lovely amber glass as the gift of the guild. About 45 members were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are anticipating an interesting visit in the east.

Guests met in the home of the hostess at 1900 South Ross street, and were then escorted to the pleasantly situated course. Miss Doris Parks was fortunate in holding low score, Miss Katherine Williams, second, and Miss Billie Brock, third.

Returning to the Gohres home, guests enjoyed a delectable buffet supper, with appointments carried out in crystal and silver. A variety of autumn flowers formed an attractive setting for the party. Miss Bentjen was presented with a kodak as a parting gift.

Those sharing in the pleasant affair with the hostess, Miss Gohres, and her honoree, Miss Bentjen, were the Misses Doris Parks, Billie Brock, Margaret Kelley, Mildred Vieira, Helen McCann of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Delta Wilson.

Miss Bernice Gohres, 1900 South Ross street, has returned from a vacation spent in British Columbia with Miss Mildred Donovan of Los Angeles. Miss Gohres had a house guest last evening, Miss Helen McCann of Los Angeles.

Miss Matie Dewey has returned to her home in Los Angeles after a short visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayes, 1516 Bush street. Miss Dewey is a niece of Admiral Dewey.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Zaisler of the Orange County hospital, are enjoying an extensive trip through the north which is taking them into British Columbia.

Jaysee Faculty Member Returns to Assume Teaching Duties

Her many friends are welcoming Miss Marie A. Jacobson back to this city, after an interesting summer of study and recreation which she enjoyed following the close of the city schools for the summer recess. Miss Jacobson is health co-ordinator and instructor in health education at Santa Ana high school and junior college, and anticipates resuming her duties when the schools open next Monday. She is making her home in the Grand Central apartments.

While the educator gave most of her summer to interesting visits in San Diego, Los Angeles and Whittier, and an enjoyable stay at the North Shore Tavern, Lake Arrowhead, she also spent some time in the northern part of the state, in San Luis Obispo, Oakland and Berkeley.

She gave four lectures at the University of California, Los

"Piano" legs are a tragedy and heartbreak to the woman afflicted with them! But even such legs can be tuned down so that they are not altogether objectionable. The first thing to do is to determine if their shape and size are due to large bones, or, just too fat and lack of exercise.

If bony structure is at fault there isn't much that can be done except to keep weight down pretty well, and to dress feet and legs as inconspicuously as possible and yet be smart looking . . . that means that heels must not be too extreme, stockings too sheer or highly sheened, seams must always be center back, and taut. Having done your duty by such legs, forget them, and be so charming that people will admire your head and forget your feet. Now, for the fat legs—

Shoes play an important part in helping this kind. Heels must be a semi-military type, not too high nor too narrow, to make the step totter. The chief effort here is to make every thing serve the ends of EXERCISE. Massage and special exercise should be a daily duty. After bathing, sit in low chair and apply some sort of astringent rubbing lotion (which hazel will do), grasp the foot firmly with the hands and rub up to the knee with a brisk pulling motion.

Apply more lotion and with thumbs clasped over the shin bone and fingers meeting at back of leg, work from the ankle up with a kneading motion. Exercises now follow. Cross the legs, exercise the one hanging relaxed over the knee of the other. Using the toes as a pointer and the ankle as the hub of the wheel, make the toes perform an imaginary circle, 25 times to the right and reverse, same number of times. This exercise strengthens the arches, makes ankles and calves supple, and improves carriage tremendously.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Loaf Cake
2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
3 eggs (separate whites)
1/4 cups sweet milk
1 teaspoon nutmeg
5 cups sifted pastry flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
1 cup dried currants
1/2 teaspoon salt.

This is a double recipe and I advise it for the reason that to make a good loaf cake, much creaming of butter and sugar must take place, so why not make it do double duty. The larger part of the batter can be baked as a loaf cake, the smaller part baked in a shallow square pan and frosted with boiled frosting for a quick dessert. The currants are used only in the loaf cake, and of course you know, loaf cake should be kept in a covered jar and allowed to ripen for a few days before cutting.

Put the mixing bowl into a pan of warm water, cut the cup of butter in bits and start creaming it. Continue until the butter re-

'RAFFLES' STILL ON WEST COAST RUN 'FOLLOW THRU' GETS 'NOT SO DUMB' AT BIG AUDIENCES HERE WALKER STATE TODAY

"Raffles," from the famous book by E. W. Hornung, is back on the screen again, this time as an all-talking film and the first time that it has been made an all-talkie. The picture opened here at the Fox West Coast theater Monday and shows through Friday night.

The story of a gentleman burglar in his attempts to baffle the police for the love of a thrill rather than from the money and jewelry value he received, he stages his last "job" when he falls in love with a girl and then is forced to again enter the life of crime in order to aid a friend.

Captured and identified as the "Amateur Cracksman," he manages Thelma to a match and wins, only after Rogers has come to her rescue.

Some of the season's best songs are heard in the show, including "Button Up Your Overcoat," "It Must Be You," "I Want to Be Bad" and "A Peach of a Pair."

Zelma O'Neal and Jack Haley have the comedy roles in the picture and are featured as much as the two stars. Their performance is worth special mention.

GET YELLOW LIGHTS

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 10.—If you want to keep flies away from your home get a lot of yellow light, is the advice of Prof. Robert Newlands of Liverpool University. In experiments conducted by him in rooms containing window glass letting in vari-colored lights, he found that flies stayed in rooms with white glass, but shunned those equipped with red and yellow glass.

"Moulin Rouge" is a gorgeous picture with a gorgeous star, Olga Chekova, and deals in an artistic and spectacular manner with night life in Paris, where the story was actually filmed. In short, it is a long to be remembered picture.

Also on tonight's bill is an Educational comedy, a cartoon, the latest news reel and the last chapter of "The Vanishing West"—and tonight at 8:30 a diamond ring will be given away.

"Not So Dumb," an all-talking adaptation of the successful stage comedy, "Dulcy," directed by King Vidor with Marion Davies as the star and with a supporting cast which includes Elliott Nugent, Raymond Hackett, Julia Faye, Sally Starr, and Donald Ogden Stewart, opens today at Walker's State.

The plot concerns a young woman, more beautiful than she is wise, whose every good intention results in a blunder. Those who have seen Miss Davies in her last two comedies, "The Patsy" and "Show People," will understand her fitness for just such a characterization.

NATIONAL JEWISH HOME

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Lord Passfield, British secretary of state for the colonies, has announced that a delegation of Jews that Great Britain's mandate over Palestine did not contemplate a Jewish state there. It does contemplate a national Jewish home, however, he says.

ADVANTAGES OF NEW BIDS TO SCHOOL SURVEY BE ASKED FOR ARE EXPLAINED BY TRUSTEES

Benefits to be obtained from a county wide educational survey were pointed out to members of the Santa Ana and Fullerton boards of education at a meeting held last night in the administration offices of Santa Ana schools, by Dr. F. W. Hart, head of the department of school administration of the University of California.

Members of the board of supervisors, who also had been invited, were unable to be present at the conference. Fullerton was represented by Albert Lauener and Arthur Staley, members of the board, and Mrs. Lauener.

Dr. Hart declared that the survey on which some 14 or 15 graduate students who are working for doctor's degrees in his department, would be employed, could be started some time in October and the completed report would be ready next spring, probably in March or April. The cost was estimated at approximately $5000.

Advantages of a survey, according to the educator, are that information is secured which gives a basis for action of school authorities on any problem concerned with development of the school program to the best interests of the pupils; that it results in the collection of facts, analysis and interpretation so that proposals may be made for a program that the facts call for; and that incidental information is secured to assist boards in planning for future locations of school buildings.

"The greatest value of a survey," he said, "is that it brings before school authorities in a concrete and analyzed form, information to make possible action or recommendations with greater certainty of going in the right direction. The problem involved in a survey of the county having a bearing on junior colleges includes the distribution of school population by grade groups. The school authorities should see the data and program before committing themselves to what extent they would go in carrying out recommendations resulting from the survey."

"The study would go into districts by the various subdivisions taking up the percentage of students that are going on to junior college or beyond, the costs of education in the districts, the ability and efforts to support educational projects and make a comparison with other similar districts in the state."

Another meeting in connection with the project is planned to be held in the future, when members of the board of supervisors may be present. The Fullerton and Santa Ana boards and the associated chambers of commerce have petitioned the board to finance an educational survey in the county, but some members of the board have taken the position that it does not care to finance the project unless the school boards will agree to carry out any recommendations that may be made. This position was criticized emphatically at the meeting last night.

Reference of the project to the Associated Chambers of Commerce educational committee, which has been active in the matter of a junior college program in the county, was suggested by the board of representatives following the talk by Dr. Hart last night.

'Doc' Stork Frees Auto Speeder

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10.—"Doc" Stork, of the flapping wings and elongated bill, played an important part in the release of Ernest Shaw, Shawnee, Kan., who was arrested for speeding through the city at 45 miles an hour.

Shaw by way of explanation in police court whispered his alibi into the judicial ear of Carlin P. Smith, presiding magistrate.

"Well, well, well," exclaimed Judge Smith. "Hurry on now, and I hope it's a boy."

FAMOUS N. Y. FIRE FIGHTER TO RETIRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(INS)—"Smoky Joe" Martin, most famous smoke eater of New York's fire department has gulped his last lungful of the acrid substance, it is believed, for he is expected to retire at the end of his vacation.

"Smoky Joe," 66, could have retired 20 years ago, but he wouldn't. When he was captain he was found face down in a fume filled cellar manning hose his comrades had deserted. The chief carried him out and shouted, "Boys, this is Smoky Joe Martin, and by the gods he loves it." That way he got his nickname, and rose to assistant fire chief.

He has been knocked out many times, and made 20 ambulance trips in his 46 years of fire fighting. But last spring he collapsed again at a big fire and suffered a heart attack. He has not been on duty since.

"Smoky Joe" as a baby was accustomed to fumes. He was born in the old gas house district and has lived nearby ever since.

MONTREAL, Sept. 10—Two government seaplanes are to leave Rockcliffe airport in the near future on one of the longest flights ever attempted in the Canadian north. A 25,000-mile trip will be taken to inspect airplane supply caches in the Canadian sub-Arctic and to survey aerial communication routes in the Northwest territories.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(UPI)—The majority of issues on the stock exchange made moderate gains today in a broad market with trading more active than at any time in a month. United States Steel sagged from its high near the close, but other leading industrials maintained a firm tone. Buying operations spread further into the mercantile section and new companies were made in the goods. Utilities were generally higher with Brooklyn Union Gas up 3 points.

Rails joined the industrials today in their forward movement, helping sentiment. Oils were in better demand, led by Sinclair. Real Estate history was a strong spot in the special issues rising more than 10 points. United Aircraft continued to demand the airplane issues while Woolworth and Hahn issues were prominent in the mercantile stocks.

Behavior of U. S. Steel in the price of reduction of $41,851 tons in the unfilled tonnage for August 31, as compared with July 31, furnished incentive for further buying activities. Steel dipped in the early part of the day, high on the movements 1733. Toward the close, Steel, like many other stocks, met profit taking and reacted from the high.

GOOD STAND BY LEGION

The Register desires to congratulate the American Legion for the manner in which its official publication, the California Legionnaire, condemns prize-fighting as now carried on in this state. Through the operation of this law, the American Legion gets five per cent of the gate receipts in each case, which goes for disabled veterans' assistance, replacement of dilapidated buildings at the Veterans' home, etc. Because of this arrangement, unquestionably many people have been favorable to this law because of their friendliness to the Legion itself.

There is little doubt but what in the referendum conducted on the question of the continuance of this law the American Legion was the deciding factor in retaining it on the statute books.

We are glad to note, therefore, that the Legionnaire takes the position that it does, as it evidences a clearness of vision, a soundness of heart and a worthiness of motive in their determination. They suggest that it should be "cleaned up or wiped off the map." Many of the best informed sportsmen agree that from the very nature of the sport, it is well-nigh impossible to eliminate the brutality and the dangers in this sport, for the public seems only to want to see a contest where there is a chance for an actual knock-out, if not serious body injury. If the commission does its duty by insisting that boxers are well and evenly matched, so that the dangers of serious injury are eliminated, it tends to take something out of the box receipts.

The editorial in the Legion publication referred to says in part:

Boxing in California is governed by a commission and for the sake of the boxing game it must be admitted that something is radically wrong. Within the last few weeks in San Francisco two boxers have been killed as the result of a ten-round boxing law as now administered.

There is no reasonable excuse for the taking of human life in the name of sport and the Legion believes that with proper supervision on behalf of the boxing commission and its officials, for whom the boxing commission is alone responsible, such a condition could not exist.

The American Legion sponsored the ten-round boxing law for two reasons: To perpetuate a manly art and to get income for the replacement of dilapidated buildings at the Veterans' home in Napa county.

We do not need the income for veterans' home buildings from such a sordid source and neither do the citizens of California want to be charged with a Roman holiday scene, where blood must be shed to satisfy its predatory gamblers, for whose benefit the prize fights seem to be exploited. There must be proper supervision by the boxing commission or the repeal of the ten-round law is the only alternative.

The vicious, brutal, inhuman treatment before the eyes of paying spectators can only sound the death knell of a sport that civilization should eradicate from its laws.

A London restaurant has installed telephones at tables. And now it's a problem to tell who the waiters are.

FORECAST WET YEARS

Dr. A. F. Gorton, associate in meteorology at the University of California predicts that wetter years are in store for California, for the next ten years. He says:

"It appears likely from the present trend of sunspot numbers and the decidedly deficient rainfall of the last 15 years that wetter years are in prospect for California."

Immoderately wet years would be disastrous to Southern California agriculture as drouth. But a series of moderately wet years would serve to replenish the water basins, the levels of which have been sinking in an appalling manner. Dr. Gorton's prediction seems too good to be true.

The possibilities, of the prediction coming true with a vengeance, however, reminds one of the story of the little boy who prayed for a dog. When he was through he went out to play and a big St. Bernard came into his yard. He ran back into the house and amended his prayer saying: "Oh God, I didn't want a big dog."

While there have been periods and locations where California would not want a decided increase in the amount of water for the moment, yet if properly distributed, this program we may all hope will be amply realized.

As much as the flapper has been criticized, it must be admitted she has been the only one able to walk home after being taken for a ride.

NEWS FROM SOUTH AMERICA

Dr. Frank Audelette, president of Swarthmore College and Mr. Eyer Simpson returned from South America the other day where they have been touring for eleven weeks as representatives of the Guggenheim foundation. The object of this tour was to set up Guggenheim scholarships. The scholarships will allow $2500 yearly and traveling expenses. To some extent they follow the inspiration of the Rhodes scholarships and it is hoped that they will do much to further friendly relations between the people of the two continents.

Just off the ship, their only comment on the revolutions in South America was that the students of Argentina feared that Dr. Hipolito Irigoyen, the deposed president of that republic would set up a dictatorship. It has served to keep them in a continuous state of unrest, with riots now and again.

A POOR ANALYSIS

Arthur Brisbane makes certain citations of Republican candidates who either have won in primaries or have announced themselves for election as anti-prohibitionists. He cites this, and then suggests that anti-prohibition was treated as a strictly Democratic disease in 1928, and that it has now attacked the magnificent Republican element.

The cases which he cites to indicate this change concern the attitude of politicians in New York, New Jersey and Chicago. There never was a time when the politicians, both Republican and Democratic in the very districts cited, were not all "wet," with the exception of Illinois. The election that Mr. Brisbane used was that of Ruth Hanna McCormick, who announces herself now as being willing to be liberal, provided the state votes that way, but as a matter of fact, she won her nomination against Senator Deneen, who is "dry," by making an open declaration that she was "dry," so that she received the support of prohibition organizations.

We will have to wait until after election before her case can be used as an evidence of the disease attacking the Republicans in Illinois. We are afraid that in the big scrap for the "wet" vote of Chicago, the gentleman with the pink whiskers, running on the Democratic ticket, is likely to be elected.

SENATOR COUZENS WINS

Senator James Couzens of Michigan has been re-nominated by the Republicans for the United States senate. We are glad to note this, as Senator Couzens has been a valuable official, and increasingly so in the years that he has been in the United States senate.

There has been about him the spirit of independence, fairness, accuracy and good judgment that is greatly needed in an official, and while like all other men with these characteristics, he has differed with many of his constituents, they have shown fine judgment in re-nominating him. He undoubtedly will be elected.

A Kansas newspaper is urging that an extra slice of bread be eaten to aid wheat consumption. Some men have more than accommodated since the business depression by taking a loaf.

What Color For a Barn?
New York Times

Farmers in the country around Janesville, Wis., must have been pleased when their rich neighbor, Mr. George S. Parker, called with an offer to aid in painting their barns and other outbuildings. He wanted the general appearance of the countryside improved, and proved his desire by proposing to give part of the cost of painting to all farmers who would join in the beautifying movement. To those who painted their barns any color other than red, he offered a larger proportion of the cost than to the others.

It was not long before the landscape was dotted with white barns. Cream or white seemed to be the only other color suggesting itself to the farmers as a possible substitute for the familiar red, but as soon as a half dozen barns had turned pale, there was a protest from another resident of the locality. Mr. F. L. Wright, an architect, spoke up for red. He said there ought to be a law requiring red for barns, and he wrote an article on the subject for a local paper, declaring that "a farmstead is warmed and given life by the red of the barns as they stand over the hills and yellow fields."

If the strongest feeling in the community now supports Mr. Parker, it is not strange, for red barns lack the financial support of white ones. The two leaders are not really bitter about it as yet, but Mr. Parker has sent for a noted designer to give an opinion, and insists that red barns are "a curse on Wisconsin's landscape."

If you would be prepared for a deluge of pithy comment on weather conditions in South America, it is well to be advised that it snowed in Chile the other day.

Dollars vs. Kisses: Dallas vs. Louisville
San Francisco Chronicle

The proverbial extravagance of the nouveau riche applies to cities as well as to individuals. Take the case of Dallas, which in the past few years has been pushed skyward financially by the great Texas oil fields. One Colonel Easterwood, who we suppose is one of the leading lights of the town, meets Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte in Paris and offers them $25,000 to fly from New York to Dallas—a trip hardly long enough to warm up their motors. We can imagine their reply, something like this:

"Oui, m'sieur, oui! Certainement! Certainement!" "Easy money!" says Coste in his daily contribution to The Chronicle.

Now look at the other picture. Instead of Dallas, the new millionaire of oil cities, we have staid, conservative old Louisville, a static city of the aristocratic South. What did Louisville give the two French eagles in return for a visit? Just four kisses. Four Kentucky belles—of course, they were beautiful—smacked Dieudonne and Maurice on both cheeks. "Dieudonne," by the way, might be freely translated as "a gift from God."

All of which demonstrates that the newly rich waste a lot of their good cash.

You can't blame the fellow who lives next door to one for calling it the Sore Thumb golf course.

American Gangsters Learn Europe
Doesn't Want Them
San Bernardino Sun

It is difficult to figure out whether the joke is on the European police who persist in arresting a prominent American gangster who has taken to travel, or whether the joke is on the American authorities who failed to arrest him when they had the chance, but warned Europe that he was a crook.

Great Britain refused him admission; Belgian police hustled him to the border when he called there, and the Germans arrested him. Then they learned to their surprise that the police in America didn't want him, but only wanted a watchful eye kept on his activities.

"Known criminals" in the United States have to commit overt acts or neglect to knock on wood or something to get themselves arrested. Arrests are simpler and more immediate abroad. It wouldn't be surprising if Europeans got some funny notions about America's attitude toward crime and criminals from this experience.

Modern Caravels Of Hope

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

RELATED DISCOVERY

When winter breathing defiance
And blizzards rage and rare
It's nice to know that science
May soon mine coal from air.
This means of coining money
Was quite unknown of yore,
Yet it strikes me as funny
It's not been done before.

For in the swarming city
Where clouds from chimneys roll
The atmosphere is gritty
With particles of coal.
It smudges homes and churches,
With black and grimy smears,
Continually it smirches
Your hands and nose and ears.

Whatever your vocation
Or calling or pursuit,
With every respiration
Your lungs fill up with soot.
And when in bleak Decembers
The driving snow comes back,
The flakes, like burnt out amber,
Paint all the pavements black.

And so, with little wonder,
I learn the science means
To rend the air asunder
For fuel for machines,
Because in sun or shower
The atmosphere around
Contains more food for power
Than hides beneath the ground.

Paying Debts With Marks And Shillings

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER
and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Foreign countries now owe the United States at least 16 billion dollars. How can these debts be paid?

They cannot be paid with marks, francs, shillings, and lire. Foreign countries cannot liquidate their debts to the United States with their own currencies, until they are converted into something which the United States will accept.

Paying home debts at home is entirely different. If the German Government, for example, owes its own citizens a million marks, it can collect a million marks in taxes, and pay its citizens with the very money it collects. But the German Government cannot use marks to pay foreign debts.

That shows the absurdity of the demand of 133 billion gold marks made upon Germany by the Reparations Commission. How could such a sum be paid? When the Dawes Commission got down to the practical problem of getting payments across German borders, it became evident that Germany could not pay even three billion gold marks a year. No way could be found of converting so many marks into anything which the creditor nations would accept. Unconverted marks they would NOT accept.

The same difficulty confronts the foreign debtors of the United States. That is a fact which we persistently refuse to face.

In the Bank Catechism, for example, issued by a New York City bank, we read this statement:

"The more we can sell to foreign countries at a profit, the greater becomes the wealth of this country, because we are getting the other man's money."

That is far from the truth. Getting the other man's money does not increase the wealth of this country. We do not want his money.

If all our foreign debtors offered to pay us the equivalent of 16 billion dollars in marks, francs, shillings, and lire, we would not accept the money.

Other ways must be found of receiving debt payments.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

AN OLDER REVOLUTION

A reader of this column, confused by the contradictory comments he read on Russian affairs, asks me whether, after all, the Russian revolution was not very much like the French revolution, to which we look as one of the fertile seed-beds of the democracy to which Americans at least pay lip-allegiance.

As the facile Emil Ludwig pointed out in a recent paper in the New York Times Magazine, there are many points of likeness between the Russian Revolution and the French Revolution.

(7) In Russia, as in France, the pre-revolution rulers were in the hands of charlatans who played upon their sovereign superstition — Rasputin dominated Czar Nicholas as a Cagliostro dominated King Louis.

(8) In Russia, as in France, the pre-revolution ruler was executed at the mandate of the mob.

(9) In Russia, as in France, there was a dire and dramatic cleavage between the rich and the poor.

(10) In Russia, as in France, the revolution has had to reckon with the attitude of foreign powers.

There are other likenesses, but these suffice to make clear that there is much in common between the Russian Revolution so many hate and the French Revolution.

(11) In Russia, as in France, the privileged class was bowled over, banished, and here and there, beaten to death.

But these likenesses throw little light on the problem of judging the Russian Revolution.

The French Revolution came in the pastoral age when life was a simpler affair than now.

The Russian Revolution came in the technical age when life is complex and calls for careful administration.

To argue from analogy here is dangerous. It behoves us to be open-minded even about revolution, but the one question we must ask is: Does this revolution work now? It is quite beside the point to say it is like a revolution that worked in another century if it worked in another century. Copyright, 1930, McClure Newspaper Syn.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI
TEACHERS' RESPONSIBILITY

Parents can furnish a fine school very hard on them and they are bewildered and confused and helpless. They defend themselves by mistaken methods. They strike back with a sharp-edged tongue. They are given to moods and tempers and abrupt change. They fall often and are as thorns in the flesh. The un-inspired teacher opens the door and says, "Out. School is no place for such as you."

Then where is the place? It is written that a child shall attend school until he is of a well advanced age. Nobody dare employ him without school certification. The street corners are his only recourse and it takes a hidebound spirit to send a child there.

When a child fails for any apparent reason to reach classroom standards, it is the duty of the teachers to lay bare the cause and apply the remedy. And by teachers I mean everybody whose life-work is within the schools: classroom teachers, specialists, principals, superintendents, social service staff, medical and nursing staff, attendance bureau and probation officers, the school psychologist and everybody allied with the school who has a teacher's responsibility to the failing child.

When one fails, when the school turns him out and after long months the courts claim their penalties, the burden of responsibility must rest on the school. UNLESS it has left no possible way untried. School is to sustain and strengthen and help not to discard children.

Adolescent boys and girls are very trying. But life is pressing
